Imana Rashid is a Solicitor in our Private Client team, advising individuals and families on Wills, Lasting Powers of Attorney and the administration of estates.

Imana helps clients put their affairs in order and plan for the future, whether that means preparing a Will that reflects their wishes, putting Lasting Powers of Attorney in place or guiding executors through the process of administering the estate of someone who has passed away.

She advises clients from a wide range of backgrounds and has particular experience working with older clients. Imana takes time to explain matters clearly and in a way that is easy to understand, helping clients feel informed and confident about the decisions they are making.

Expertise

Making a Will

Helping clients put clear, legally valid Wills in place that reflect their wishes and provide for the people who matter to them.

Lasting Power of Attorney

Helping clients put arrangements in place so trusted individuals can make decisions on their behalf if they are unable to do so themselves.

Probate

GEPP Solicitors

Guiding executors and families through the process of administering an estate following the death of a loved one.

Declarations of Trust for Property

Advising on Declarations of Trust to clearly record how property is owned and each party's financial interest.

Planning for Later Life

Helping clients plan ahead with practical, clear advice on Wills and Lasting Powers of Attorney, giving them greater confidence about their future arrangements.

Approach

Imana takes a personable and understanding approach, recognising that every client comes to her with their own individual circumstances, concerns and priorities.

She enjoys working directly with clients and getting to know them during meetings. Building trust is particularly important to her, and she wants clients to feel confident that their affairs are in reliable hands.

Imana has particular experience working with older clients and takes care to explain legal matters clearly and at an appropriate pace, ensuring clients understand both the advice they are receiving and the decisions available to them.

She aims to be approachable, understanding and reliable throughout, giving clients the confidence to ask questions and discuss what can sometimes be very personal or sensitive matters.
